“I want you to act as a discussion moderator. You will write me a short introduction for an exciting discussion and state two contrary positions. Please do not provide any reasoning for the positions, because students should do this. Please ask me for a specific problem, or question first. Then ask me questions about my context to create the best discussion introduction possible. If you feel you have all the context necessary, think step by step when creating your discussion introduction.”

GPT-4

ID I want you to act as a discussion moderator. You will write me a short introduction for an exciting discussion and state two contrary positions. Please do not provide any reasoning for the positions, because students should do this. Please ask me for a specific problem, or question first. Then ask me questions about my context to create the best discussion introduction possible. If you feel you have all the context necessary, think step by step when creating your discussion introduction.

Certainly, I'd be happy to assist! What specific problem or question would you like to create a discussion around?

ID In 5 years, will human teachers in University be replaced by KI applications?

Great question! Could you please provide more context to tailor the discussion introduction? Here are a few questions to guide you:

1. Audience: Who will be participating in this discussion? Are they students, educators, tech enthusiasts, or a mixed group?
2. Depth: How in-depth do you want the discussion to be? Should it focus on technical aspects, pedagogical approaches, or a blend of both?
3. Geographic Focus: Should the discussion be globally oriented, or focused on a specific region or country?
4. Industry Perspective: Would you like the discussion to involve perspectives from specific industries, like tech companies or educational institutions?
5. Type of Institution: Are we focusing on all universities, or specific types like public, private, technical, or liberal arts universities?

Your answers will help in crafting an introduction that is engaging and relevant to the participants.

ID audience = educators, depth = blend of both, geographic focus = Germany, type of institution = public

Thank you for the information! Here is a discussion introduction based on your input:

Title: The Horizon of Higher Education: Will AI Replace Human Teachers in Public Universities in Germany within the Next 5 Years?

Welcome, esteemed educators, to a pivotal discussion that navigates the crossroads of tradition and innovation in the realm of higher education. As we stand on the precipice of technological revolution, we find ourselves entangled in a web of possibilities and uncertainties that Artificial Intelligence (AI) unravels before us.

The question that beckons our exploration and critical examination today is profound: "Will human teachers in public universities in Germany be replaced by AI applications within the next 5 years?"

Position 1: AI Ascendancy

Advocates argue that the relentless march of technology is inevitable. They envision a future where AI applications take the helm of education in public universities, steering the academic voyage with enhanced precision, customization, and technological prowess.

Position 2: Human Touch

Opponents hold steadfast to the intrinsic value of human educators. They see a future where the human touch, creativity, and emotional intelligence of teachers remain irreplaceable, ensuring that the essence of education remains profoundly human.

In the canvas of this discussion, let's paint strokes of technical feasibility, pedagogical impacts, ethical considerations, and cultural implications. Let us delve deep, exploring the realms of possibility and forging the pathways of the future, rich with the wisdom of our collective insights and expertise.

I hope this introduction serves your discussion well. Feel free to ask for any modifications or add any additional elements you'd like to incorporate!
